

U. S. POLICY IN CUBA OUTLINED BY ROOSEVELT

President Calls For Speedy Action By Government

Washington, Sept. 6.—(P)—Amid fresh reports of Cuban disturbances President Roosevelt tonight called for the speedy establishment of a government to maintain order in the island republic.

Mr. Roosevelt outlined the United States policy to the diplomatic representatives of South and Central America who were called to the White House while American warships were concentrating about the troubled island.

He declared that it was the desire of the United States to avoid intervention and that everything possible to make this unnecessary was being done.

He said the key to the American policy toward Cuba in this crisis was that the Cuban people obtain as rapidly as possible a government of their own choosing and, equally important, a government that would maintain order.

He pointed out that if a government were established as quickly as possible to restore order it would have the happy effect of eliminating any threat or necessity of intervention.

But even as the president spoke a late message was going into the White House from Ambassador Willis at Cuba reporting considerable disorder, especially on the southern coast of the island.

A contingent of marines stood by at the Quantico, Virginia, base ready for immediate movement.

Secretary Swanson of the navy was speeding down the Atlantic coast aboard the cruiser Indianapolis to Havana.

The battleship Mississippi was nearing Key West, Fla., while a group of destroyers, submarine chasers and other craft stood by within easy striking distance of other points of trouble on the island.

The president emphasized to the representatives of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Mexico who met with him and Secretary Hull at the White House late today that the object of keeping them informed of the situation was that the United States believed that the countries had just as much interest in the preservation of order in Cuba as did the United States.

In this unprecedented diplomatic move Mr. Roosevelt outlined the American policy in the Cuban crisis.

He wanted the other republics of America to have complete and constant information about the Cuban situation to the end that all could be available to the United States.

The United States has absolutely no desire to intervene and is seeking every means to avoid intervention.

The diplomats included: Ambassador Feltz of Argentina, Benjamin Cohen, charge d'affaires for Chile, H. Acosta, charge d'affaires for Brazil, Padilla Nervo, charge d'affaires of Mexico.

SPECIAL MEET OF ASSEMBLY IS PLANNED

Horner Will Call The Session Early In October

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 6.—The special session of the Illinois legislature which Governor Horner is expected to call to deal with the problems of unemployment relief and liquor control.

This became known today from sources close to the governor, who returned from conferences at Chicago where it was decided to first raise $20,000,000 bond issue if the federal government makes good its threat to stop its heavy financing of relief.

A special session had been planned, regardless of the progress made, to permit the sale of liquor within a few months. Even before a new relief crisis unexpectedly appeared last week, it was understood by the administration's plan to call the session back to the capital to consider control and revenue laws.

Governor Horner will go to Washington Sunday. His mission is to seek further federal help in feeding, clothing and sheltering the masses. Success would depend upon whether the federal relief administration rescinds its recent order drastically limiting the funds given to Illinois.

Official comment was withheld but administration leaders were unanimous in their desire that the special session be as brief as possible.

It was believed that the governor's call would include liquor control, the unemployment relief bond issue and possibly new legislation to make counties the operating unit in the federal social eradication-household act.

Other issues may be included before the formal call is issued, but Mr. Horner's advisers gave their major preliminary sessions to be held by a bipartisan group of senate and house leaders. This would increase the prospect for unified support and prompt action.

While the actual status of the relief problem will be determined by Mr. Horner's trip to Washington, he has asked his liquor control commission to speed its work of recommending legislation to regulate the sale of liquor and to obtain additional revenue by taxes on its sale.

The liquor commission, appointed last week, will hold its first meeting Friday afternoon at Chicago.

In addition to Governor Horner, a number of other prominent Illinoisans will go to Washington to join in the effort to obtain relief funds. They include Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Chicago, Speaker Henry T. Rainey, Senator William Dieterich, and Arthur Roe, speaker of the Illinois house of representatives.

Representative George W. Williams, who will leave from Chicago Sunday, will go by airplane from St. Louis.

HURRICANE IN TEXAS KILLS TWENTY TWO

Property Damage Will Run Into Millions Reports State

Brownsville, Texas, Sept. 6.—(P)—Twenty-two known deaths, hundreds of injured and property damage running into millions of dollars formed the dark-hued picture tonight of the great hurricane which lashed south Texas Monday night and Tuesday.

Newspapermen and relief workers ploughing through mud and water and debris of every description, finally were able to communicate to the outer world accurate details of the tropical fury which spread death and destruction through the rich valley of the lower Rio Grande.

At the same time the astonishing fact was revealed that, on the face of preliminary surveys, no lives were lost in Brownsville, a city of some 30,000 persons near the mouth of the Big River, despite the terrific winds and general destruction of property.

Fear Many Deaths Experienced relief workers expressed opinion, however, that the death toll probably would be increased as cutting streets isolated by high waters which followed the deluge of rain, were explored. Fear for the low lying sections in Matamoros, the Mexican city across the river from Brownsville, especially was felt.

Eight persons were known to have lost their lives at Matamoros, four at Harlingen, two at San Benito, seven at Rio Hondo, and one at Port Isabel, Texas.

Brownsville's established list of injured persons telegraphed the rear of the Big River, Atlantic city, and county authorities plunged into the job.

R. E. Woodruff, vice president of the Erie railroad, declared at Cleveland that M. H. King, engineer of the Erie, had stopped behind the Erie station, and departing from "that point had passed two signals indicating trains ahead."

The engineer immediately after the wreck told newspapermen that he "didn't see the signal light in time to stop."

Woodruff said both the signals involved "are in automatic train control territory and are so equipped that the engineer, before passing, has to acknowledge them, which indicates that he was aware that the track ahead was not clear."

One of the questions to which investigators are seeking an answer concerns the sudden car sandwiched in between regulation steel coaches of the Atlantic liner makeup.

All the dead and many of the injured were taken from this car, third from the end of the express.

Federal inquiry got under way "at the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington ordered three investigators to Birmingham."

Coroner Frank J. Hitchcock, announcing that the inquest has been set for Friday, made it plain that no blame will be placed anywhere or upon anyone "until that time. There were intimations in other official circles, however, that arrests might follow an inquiry at police headquarters at which "every interested individual was questioned."

The coroner, District Attorney Frank L. Wooster, Police Captain Michael J. Hanahan and Sheriff Charles W. Kress called before them members of the train crews, the wreck crew and Martin T. Reasap of Birmingham, general yardmaster in charge at the time of the wreck.

ENGINEER IS BLAMED FOR ERIE WRECK

Investigators Claim He Knew Signals Were Against Him

By Charles E. Lang Associated Press Staff Writer Birmingham, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(P)—A disclosure that the engineer of a mail train which telescoped the rear of the Erie, Atlantic city, and county authorities plunged into the job.

Nudist Colony In Michigan Raided; Warrants Issued

Allegan, Mich., Sept. 6.—(P)—A raid by Sheriff Fred W. Miller on a nudist colony ten miles west of here resulted today in the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ring, of Kalamazoo, said by the sheriff to have operated the camp.

Seventeen other warrants were issued, charging indecent exposure, the same charges preferred against the Ring and the persons named were ordered by Prosecutor Welborn S. Luna to report here by Saturday.

Sherriff Miller said the persons found at the camp were from Ann Arbor, Kalamazoo and Chicago, but the names were not revealed pending service of the warrants.

The officers said that when they arrived at the camp, known as the Sunshine Sports League, a game of handball was in progress while other occupants of the camp were bathing in Swan Creek all night. The campers were said to have been married couples for the most part. The Ring's two daughters, 7 and 17 years old, were also at the camp.

Los Angeles, Sept. 6.—(P)—The story of a raid by four detectives on her Agua Caliente, Mexico, hotel bungalow in the spring of 1932 was told by Claire Windsor, actress, today in trial of the $100,000 suit in which she is charged by the former wife of Alfred Read Jr., with stealing his love.

Miss Windsor said the detectives broke into her bungalow on morning after she, Read's sister, Miss Grace Read, and another man had gone to the resort the night before from San Diego, across the border. She and Miss Read occupied the bungalow, she said.

Read became ill and she induced him to lie down for a time in the bungalow. She insisted she did not know what time he left. "Well, was he there at 7 o'clock the next morning?" Asked C. Ray Robinson, attorney for Miss Marian Young Read, who divorced Read after learning of his romance.

Miss Windsor's eyes snapped. "No, he was not," she replied, "but four detectives walked in on me at that hour."

Robinson dropped the matter. Miss Windsor told of having heard in the later stages of the romance that Read was "running around with a girl."

BANKERS OPPOSE PLAN TO INSURE BANK DEPOSITS

Financiers Demand Postponement Of Banking Act

Chicago, Sept. 6.—(P)—The American Bankers Association today drafted its war map to battle against insurance of deposits.

Five thousand bankers adopted a resolution demanding postponement of the deposit guaranty clause in the national banking act of 1933, already adopted by Congress and slated to become law next Jan. 1.

The association suggested in a resolution that a federal commission be appointed to consider in relation to one another "the various important problems of money and banking and central banking that are pressing for solution and settlement."

Can't Carry On. "It is clearly true," the resolution said, "that this nation cannot indefinitely continue to carry on its business affairs with a monetary system in so unsettled a state as it is at present."

After declaring the deposits guaranty provision a "radical departure from the customary procedure in American banking," the association placed in the hands of its administrative committee the task of "giving proper consideration to the problem with the idea of taking such remedial steps as seem fitting and proper."

Replying to a plea from President Roosevelt for ready extension of credit to enable business and commerce to thrive under the NRA, the association adopted a resolution stating: "We pledge our support and cooperation in the recovery campaign that is now under way, and we point out that the banking support that is in the long run most effective and helpful is that which conforms to the principles of sound money and banking, and which by so doing safeguards the institution and the funds of its depositors."

Leaders in banking from coast to coast had assailed the deposits guaranty provision throughout the convention as unsound.

The resolution expressed a belief that installation of the insurance on deposits program might result in many bank failures. The guaranty plan would apply to deposits of $2,500 and less.

"The new law provides for the organization of a corporation to administer the insurance of deposits, but as yet this corporation has not been formed," the resolution stated.

"It also provides that there shall be made a thorough examination of banks to determine their qualifications for insurance, but these examinations have not yet been made. There is no reason to believe sufficient time before the beginning of next year to carry through the examinations the law requires."

"There are more than 2,700 banks operating on a restricted basis. Most of these banks could not qualify for deposit insurance unless reorganized. Nearly all of them would be forced to suspend."

"We believe that if the attempt is made to hurry through arbitrarily strict examinations the result would be suspension and liquidation of some thousands of banks which would impair the prospects of recovery."

"If on the other hand the necessary hurried examinations should be lax and superficial, many institutions would be admitted to deposit insurance that cannot rightfully qualify."

The association's stand on deposits guaranty was in contrast to the statement of President Roosevelt yesterday that the banking act had given "a splendid reality" to the guaranty made to a declaration that the government had provided the banks with means to lessen credit for business operations, made by a spokesman of the president before the convention.

ONE INMATE AT MATTEWAN IS SHOT, KILLED

Crazed Felons Fight Police And Guards Several Hours

Matteawan, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(P)—One inmate was shot to death and another wounded today in battle with guards and police at the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane during an unsuccessful attempt of four crazed felons to escape.

The felons were armed with pistols, using blank cartridges. After exchanging shots they barricaded themselves in the assembly room where Ray Fisher of Buffalo, an inmate described by officials of the institution as the leader of the attempt for freedom, was shot to death by State Trooper Harold Galvin.

Marshall Surrenders

Order among the 1200 inmates was restored after a tear gas barrage brought the surrender of Skelly Marshall, who was shot in both legs, and two other inmates, James Ellis and Reinhardt Boiz.

Governor Herbert Lehman in Albany asked for a full report of the uprising. Authorities began an investigation to learn where the inmates evaded their pistols and blanks.

During the battle other inmates in the asylum set up a loud chorus of "hammering."

"One guard was cut under the right eye and an inmate was injured as he stopped a chair which one of the rioters was attempting to bring against a guards head."

The trouble began shortly after midnight when two inmates who were regarded as "sane" and not confined to cells surprised a guard and ordered him at pistol point to open the cells of Fisher and Ellis. The two prisoners who made the initial move were identified by authorities as Marshall and Boiz. They locked the guards in a cell room, but guards on other floors, hearing unusual noises, investigated and sent an emergency call for police. There were several scuffles between the inmates and the guards, with the inmates firing their blank cartridges freely.

The guards, with the inmates before the four finally barricaded themselves in the assembly room.

GOVERNMENT OF CUBA PROMISES LAW AND ORDER

Havana Is Quiet But Other Cities Fear Disorders

By J. P. McKnight Associated Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1933, by The Associated Press.)

Havana, Sept. 6.—(P)—The new Cuban government tonight guaranteed order in all provinces, but a broad-based of scattered disorders reached the capital while American destroyers lay within gunshot of the island and others speed in this direction.
